New York, NY (January 1, 2021) One Trick Dog Records is pleased to announce the release of The Remainder, the third studio album from Brooklyn-based saxophonist and composer Jonathan Parker. Recorded at Blue House Studio in Maryland, the album features Parker's long-standing quintet from his days living in Washington D.C. The album is a noticeable departure from his previous album, Interloper, which featured his writing for jazz octet. On The Remainder, Parker instead focuses his efforts on small group writing and ensemble interplay. The result is a record which adeptly straddles the line between meticulously composed melodies and exhilarating ensemble spontaneity.

The genesis for The Remainder began when Parker still resided in Washington, D.C. in 2015. While making a name for himself performing around town with his octet, Parker was composing music which he didn't feel worked with such a large ensemble. He soon assembled a new smaller group to begin workshopping the music, oftentimes in dive bars across the city. In fact, the track Swingin' At The Dew Drop is a tribute to the Dew Drop Inn - a funky dive bar in Northeast DC which hosted Parker's group each month. Over the course of the next two years, the band developed a unique sound that was all their own and transformed Parker's music into something totally unique.

While Parker's previous album, Interloper, derived much of its personality from the arrangements and compositions, The Remainder allows each of the band members to light up each song with their own unique style of playing. Each musician is a formidable performer in their own right and they effectively blend their own personalities together to form a cohesive and distinctive ensemble sound.

The Remainder features Chris Barrick on vibraphone, Max Light on guitar, Eliot Seppa on bass and Abinnet Berhanu on drums.
